Keywords are better for searching when you’re using tools that don’t like long strings of text – like library search engines!

~ automatic keywords for this topic are going to be: policy or legislation ~

1. My environmental policy is called / deals with: _________________________
____________________________________________________________________

2. According to Wikipedia, one of the main people or organizations involved in getting my policy enacted was:________________________________________
____________________________________________________________________

3. According to Wikipedia, my policy was first enacted on: _______________

Therefore, my basic keywords for searching the library search engines to get my 2 required sources are a combination of:

(policy or legislation) AND “Answer from #1” AND “Person/Organization from #2” AND Date from #3
